"Overlay Districts"

Pat Keller - Director of Planning, Amy Mantay - Design Planner and Jeff Mayhew of the Planning Department met with Bill, Kathy, Karen, Steve, Mary and Glenn on September 1, 2010. Reisterstown Aerial Photo Zoning Map and Reisterstown Charrette Map copies were given to us and are on the wall in the Long and Foster Meeting Room.

4. "Walking tours of Main Street" at the request of the County Planners were done last weekend. They asked us to take notes and photos of properties that best represent the charm of Reisterstown which we will share with the County Planners when they come out to do their "Walking Tour" next week. They will use the photos to get ideas for new construction in the area.
5. Update on Meeting With Peirce Macgill - Economic Development, and Wayne Mixdorf, Director of the Parking Division, of the County Revenue Authority. Bill and Glenn met with them to review county drawings and maps on Wednesday, September 1, 2010. They also walked two properties near Main Street that will be considered as sites for future public parking lots.

6. Our organization is just getting off the ground and in order to create a 501C3 we will need donations to cover our cost.
7. Continued newspaper coverage of our activities & staying focused and united as we continue discussions with Baltimore County Planners.

Next Meeting : September 21st or 23rd, 2010 at 7 P.M. ?

News Briefs

Safety Day

The Baltimore County Police Community Relations Council is holding its Public Safety Day on Saturday, Sept. 11, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Hunt Valley Towne Centre.

Demonstrations include high-tech home-safety equipment, police dogs, police tactical, marine and aviation displays, fire safety demonstrations, antique police and fire cars, and rappelling. A children's area and more are planned.

County and state agencies are to be on hand with information. The event is free. For more information, call the community resources team at 410-887-5901.

Main Street

The steering committee involved in the revitalization of Reisterstown continues to work toward a public-input charette this fall.

"Several issues including public parking and an overlay zoning district have been identified and will be explored by the steering committee prior to the final charette taking place," Councilman Kevin Kamenetz (D-2nd) said.

Peirce Macgill, of the county Department of Economic Development, and Wayne Mixdorf, of the county Revenue Authority, are to meet with committee co-chairman Glenn Barnes and architect Bill Keeney to discuss public parking in Reisterstown to assist merchants. Committee members are to meet this week with Pat Keller, director of the Office of Planning, and county planners to discuss the overlay zoning district.

School's open

BAXTER SMITH/STAFF PHOTOS

Children with parents returned to New Town Elementary on Monday, the opening day of school. Greeting them were state schools Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick, county schools Superintendent Joe A. Hairston, county school board members, County Executive James T. Smith Jr., state Delegate Dan Morhaim, and New Town principal Beth Strauss, who gave parents personal attention. Officials chose New Town to visit because its Maryland School Assessment scores are near the top in the state.
